The Fauci Diaries and the Lab Leak Renaissance | There Was No Lab Leak | There Was No Virus

Dr Anthony Fauci is testifying in front of congress today. Waiting for him, teeth bared, is his nemesis Rand Paul, armed with incriminating e-mails and (allegedly) extracts from Fauci's personal diary, written between 2019 and 2022.

Suddenly, everybody is talking about Covid's mysterious origins again.

Familiar names and phrases, like the Wuhan Institute of Virology and "gain of function" are doing the rounds once more.

"It was natural", say some.
"It was a lab accident", say others.
"They released it on purpose," chorus a third group.

My position – and the OffG position – has been clear for years: [as has Truth11.com]

There was no Covid virus.

It didn't jump from a bat, or leak from a lab and it wasn't a bio-weapon, because it never existed.

This is the only logical interpretation of the evidence.

The evidence of fore-knowledge and planning obviously rules out an accident or natural occurrence.

Unless you want to argue that the greatest psy-op of all time – involving actors in every section of civil society at every level of authority in almost every country on Earth – started by accident.

And the refutation of the bio-weapon thesis is a simple question: What's the point of a bio-weapon that doesn't do anything?

"Covid" had near-identical death rates to seasonal flu, the majority of "Covid cases" never even had symptoms.

Is this what they spent billions researching?

Is it not more likely the disease was a creation of testing protocols and propaganda?

After all, an entirely fake disease offers total control of your pandemic narrative. It kills who you like, when you like, and stops when you tell it to stop. Your vaccine will definitely work, because it doesn't have to do anything.

For a full making of this case, read our history of covering the lab leak theory here, here and here. Or Mike Yeadon's great piece here.

And as for Fauci, he has been on political death row for a long time. He was christened Covid's disposable scapegoat almost as soon as the media started treating him like the pandemic's superhero.

Such is the price of fame.

It's long been apparent that, should someone need to take the fall for the pandemic, and sate some public thirst for vengeance, it would be the good doctor.

This questioning is part of that process.

It's a show trial with Fauci doggedly pleading the fifth like a good boy. A WWE event with a scripted loser who has to go up on stage and take a fake beating.

The diary might be real, or it might be the result of a ChatGPT prompt from two days ago, and does it matter much which?

It's all a grand distraction that, under the guise of accountability, is reinforcing the underpinning lies of the Covid Pandemic.

That's been the point of the lab-leak theory from the beginning.
